Dear Parents/Carers

Food intolerances and allergies

As I am sure you are aware, as a school we do our very best to support and provide for the diverse needs of our children and their families.

Wherever possible, the kitchen accommodates the specific needs of each child, requiring additional and replacement ingredients to be bought and segregated storage and preparation routines to be followed. The number of intolerances and allergies being catered for has risen steeply recently and this is putting a strain on the kitchen in addition to the school budgets.

Regrettably, and in line with practice at other local schools, we will have to limit provision to medically established allergies supported by a doctor's letter from next half term. Please contact the school office if this applies to your child or if you have a concern regarding this change.

With regards, and on behalf of the full governing body.
